	2 Smithii Loudon, Smith's of Ayr . The plant to which this name is applied in appearance closely resembles J. chinensis . The plant in the Hort. Soc. Gard. is of vigorous growth, and worthy a place in every garden. There is a plant extant in some Scotch nurseries, commonly called J. nepalensis , which is, in all probability, identical with J. c. 2 Smithii Loudon.

Synonymes. This genus was separated from Sisyrinchium by Dr. Brown, who gave to it the name of Renéealmia; a name applied by Linnaeus, but subsequently suppressed by Smith, to some or all of the species of the modern genus Alpinia: but, as the genus Renéealmia has been restored, upon good grounds, by Roscoe, it becomes necessary to adopt, from Sprengel, the appellation Libertia for the genus of Brown, which is a most natural one. The Libertia of Dumortier is Hosta of Trattinnick, and Fänkia of Sprengel; and Libertia of Lejeune scarcely appears different from Brown's [? from Brômus]. (Sir W. J. Hooker, Bot. Mag. 3294.)

Libertia Spr. Renéealmia R. Br. Næmalostigma Dietrich. The Libertia of Lejeune, or Michelaria of Dumortier, is considered, with good reason, to be a Brômus. (Dr. Lindley, Bot. Reg. 1630.)

- We place these species under Narcissus to agree with the earlier part of our Hórtus Britannicus; but the late Mr. Haworth, who studied the species of this genus for fifty years, has, in an able pamphlet entitled Narcissinearum Monographia, distributed them into sixteen genera, four of which we here exhibit sectionally. We subjoin a synopsis of them, exhibiting his genera in a sectional manner, and attach to his species the numbers of such of their synonymous species as are inserted in the body of the present work in pp. 116. and 117.

 Mr. D. Don has, in the place cited, investigated the structure and affinities of this plant; and deems it a form of a distinct and natural genus, which he has characterised, and named Pericallis. To it he would refer this plant, and Cineraria cruenta, aurita, laccra, lanata, multiflora, populifolia, and malvæfolia. The genus Pericallis has, he has remarked, the habit of Tussilago, the involucrem of Othónna, and the corolla of Senecio.

913. RO'CHEA Dec. The Laröchea of Hort. Brit. p. 112. should be Röchea. De Candolle, in his Prod. 3. 390., very properly asks why should Röchea be corrupted into Laröchea, when the article is never admitted as part of the name: for example, La Billardièrre supplies the generic name Billardièra, Du Hamel that of Hamèla, &c. To these may be added the names of De Candolle, from which the genus Candöllea is derived; L'Héritier, Heritièra; Dutrochet, Trochèta; La Peyrouse, Peyrousia; and so of many others.

 †10107 corymbosum L. corymbose-infior $\frac{1}{2}$ or ... my W. bh N. Amer. 1806. L p Bot. mag. 3433 syn., by Sir W. J. Hooker: V. ance'num Ait., Bot. Reg. t. 400. ? Andr. Bot. Rep. t. 138. ? V. dimorphum Mx.
 2 fuscatum Hook. embrowned $\frac{1}{2}$ or 2 my.jn W. pk N. Amer. 1770. L p Bot. reg. 302 syn., by Sir W. J. Hooker: V. fuscatum Ph., Bot. Reg. t. 302. V. formosum Andr., Bot. Rep. t. 97. V. virgatum Wat. Dendr. t. 33., not Ait. V. mariânum Wat.
 34617 10107a albiflorum Hook. white-corollaed $\frac{1}{2}$ or ... my W N. Amer. 1833? L p Bot. mag. 3428
 Allied to V. corymbosum L. It may possibly be the V. album of Lam. (not of Linn., for that Sir James Smith has ascertained to be the Xylöstium ciliatum β Ph., nor of Pursh, which is Vaccinium stamineum ["Andrews's Bot. Rep., not of Linn."]); but the description is too vague to allow a correct conclusion.
 — Sir W. J. Hooker.

 †10117 pennsylvanicum Mx. Pennsylvanian $\frac{1}{2}$ fr $\frac{1}{2}$ my.jn W. bh N. Amer. 1772. L p Bot. mag. 3434
 Sir W. J. Hooker has cited as synonymous the V. tenellum Ph., and, with a query, the V. tenellum of Ait. Hort. Kew. ii. 12.; and has noted that V. pennsylvanicum has affinity with V. corymbosum.

"It is to be observed that Uredo Ranunculacearum Dec. is at least in great part the same species with the present, of which U. Anemones Dec. Fl. Franc. is a synonyme. Consequently the species described in Engl. Fl. under the name of U. Ranunculacearum on Link's authority, must bear the name of Uredo Ficariae Alb. et Schwein."—Rev. M. J. Berkeley.

"TO the thoroughness and integrity, the absolute rectitude inculcated in thought, word, and deed, and to the tender charity extended to the erring and repentant, we are inclined to attribute the hold these works take on readers of all classes and all ages. The pure transparent sincerity tells even on those who are apt to find any work whose aim and object are religious, heavy and uninteresting. The re-publication of these works in an easily accessible form is a benefit of which we cannot over-estimate the solid advantages." GLOBE.
