CHAPTER I
THE EARLY HISTORY OF THE UNITED STATES
FROM 1492 TO 1776

The first European settlement in North America was established by Christopher Columbus in 1492. The Spanish explorers discovered the continent and claimed it for Spain. The English followed in 1607, establishing the first permanent English colony at Jamestown. The Pilgrims arrived in 1620 at Plymouth. The French and Dutch also established colonies. The American Revolution began in 1775 and ended in 1781 with the Battle of Yorktown.

The American Revolution was a war for independence from Great Britain. It resulted in the Declaration of Independence in 1776 and the Constitution in 1787. The new nation was founded on the principles of liberty and democracy. The American people fought for their freedom and established a new government.

CEYLON COFFEE SALES IN LONDON.

(From Our Commercial Correspondent).

MINCING LANE, Jan. 26.

"Orissa."—WAG P, in estate mark, 3 casks and 1 barrel out at 44s, 41s refused.

Coffee closed firm for futures, which are 50 per cent dearer than the lowest, and we still expect to see prices dearer and for the next three years. News from China, Northern Afghanistan and Warren look serious. Wheat should rise. Cotton Manchester strong.

COFFEE (Santos) closed firm. This article is still digesting the 60 per cent. rise. Regarding the size of mild coffee crops in Central America, we hear from good judges that all the Central American ports will be short this year, so later on we again anticipate higher prices. Maize, corn, and oats should rise. Wheat depends on the weather as stocks are heavy. Cotton, the next crop may be 10,000,000 to 15,000,000 bales. American sugar looks tired as stocks are too big.
